How much work will I have to do?

The amount of hours depends on the course you're taking, but you won't mind studying in this brand new building, kitted out with the latest high-tech equipment. There's even a coffee bar, so you can do some research while chilling out on the terrace enjoying an iced latte or two.

....And the Things a Traditional Place Would Tell You

Why should I continue my education?

Higher Education is an investment in your future. Over the course of a lifetime, graduates typically earn far more than non-graduates.

What is a Foundation Degree?

It's a higher education qualification, which blends academic rigour and specialist knowledge in an employment context. On completion of their degree (FdA) graduates may progress to employment or further study.

Who are Foundation Degrees for?

Students may be:
* Employees wanting to progress their careers
* A Level students who want a different route to an honours degree (a chance to stay local and save some money maybe)
* Advanced Apprentices
* Students with National Diplomas or NVQ Level 3 who are seeking to progress to the next level up.

How long does a Foundation Degree take?

* Two years of full-time study
* You can study part-time over a longer period, allowing you to study while at work.

What qualification will I get?

After graduating, you can use the letters FdA or FdSc after your name. You can also top up your Foundation Degree to a full Honours Degree by studying for a further year at university.

Nine years for dealer who killed flatmate

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A DRUG dealer who fatally stabbed his flatmate in a row over a mobile phone has been jailed for nine years.

Eric Erron Johnson, 23, stabbed David Williams in the neck and chest at their flat in Oldbrook Boulevard, Oldbrook, on August 3 last year.

At the Old Bailey on Monday Judge Philip Clegg sentenced Johnson to nine years in prison for manslaughter.

The jury heard that Johnson, known locally as 'Mac', often wore a knife and knuckle duster attached to a leather strap around his neck.

Johnson admitted in court that he was a drug dealer and said Mr Williams let him stay at the flat in return for supplying him with crack cocaine.

The pair had been rowing over the whereabouts of Johnson's £500 Prada mobile phone, which prosecutor John Denniss described as his 'pride and joy'.

Jailed: Eric Erron Johnson, who stabbed his flatmate to death in a row over a mobile phone

Johnson claimed that he acted in self defence after Mr Williams prodded him with a mop and swung a kitchen knife at him.

Mr Williams, 30, was rushed to hospital after his girlfriend found him lying in a pool of blood in the kitchen, but he died from his injuries.

Witnesses reported seeing Johnson running from the scene and detectives eventually tracked him down to an address in London.

He was charged with murder but the jury at Luton Crown Court found him not guilty, instead finding him guilty of an alternative charge of manslaughter.

Judge Clegg said: "I am quite satisfied that the deceased did pick up a knife in the course of the fight and the defendant stabbed him wildly, with no particular care where he hit him but with no intent to cause serious harm."

Speaking after sentencing, Detective Sergeant Luke Grove said: "The past year has been an extremely difficult time for all those involved in this case.

"The sentencing of Eric Johnson should bring some closure to the family and friends of David Williams.

"Hopefully now they can now move on with their lives."

DS Grove also praised the witnesses for their bravery when giving evidence.

David Williams, who was formerly known as Howard Smith, left behind a wife and a baby daughter.

Bottle of wine had a little more 'body' than bargained for

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

A MOTHER of three was shocked to find a dead mouse at the bottom of her bottle of red wine.

Katie Watkins, 27, of Langport Crescent in Oakhill drank the majority of a bottle of £3.19 Rioja from Netto with a friend on Sunday night.

"As we were drinking it I said to my friend I didn't think much of it," said the project manager for an Milton Keynes IT firm.

"There was a different taste to it. But I'm not a big fan of wine and I rarely drink."

On Monday, after removing the stopper and pouring the last glass of Montequinto Rioja, Mrs Watkins put the bottle down and heard a 'plop'.

After holding the green glass bottle up to the light she says she saw the tail, eyes, fur and claws of a three inch-long rodent.

"When I realised what it was I was sick several times," she said.

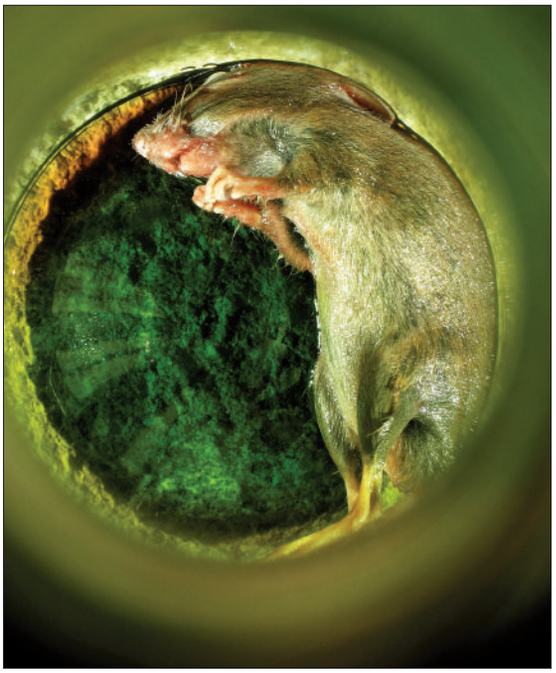
"I phoned NHS Direct who said there was a chance of toxicity after they spoke to the poisons unit.

"It's too big to have got in there overnight and we put a stopper in it. It has put me off wine forever. I might be convinced to try it again only if I can use a sieve."

The wine, which is described as 'medium bodied' with a 'very pleasant finish' on the label, was purchased on Saturday at the Benbow Court Netto in Shenley Church End.

Yesterday Netto said it has now launched an investigation and Mrs Watkins is seeking legal advice.

"You see all the stories about people that have found digusting things in their food, but I've never heard of someone finding a mouse in their wine," she added.



The mouse discovered in the bottom of Katie Watkins' bottle of wine

"I find it difficult even drinking a cup of coffee now when I get to the end of the cup."

A spokesman for Netto said: "We have contacted Mrs Watkins regarding her complaint and have begun an investigation to establish exactly when and how the object could have entered the bottle.

"Whilst this is clearly an isolated incident, it is one we take very seriously and we will be impressing upon our supplier the importance of identifying what exactly has happened.

"We pride ourselves on the quality of our products and ensuring our customers receive the best possible service and we will endeavour to get to the bottom of this matter as soon as possible."

Mrs Watkins added: "It's my birthday this week but I won't be celebrating with wine."

Police seek 'crucial' witness to city centre attack on man

A MAN is fighting for his life as police search for a crucial witness to his assault.

Peter Collins, 55, from Milton Keynes, was assaulted during an unprovoked attack as he walked through Lloyds Court, in the city centre, on Wednesday, July 30.

He was transferred to the JRII Hospital in Oxford for emergency surgery before returning to Milton Keynes Hospital, where his condition deteriorated this week.

CCTV cameras captured the attack and Michael John Newson, 20, of North Tenth Street, was arrested at the scene and charged with GBH.

He appeared at Milton Keynes Magistrates Court on Friday and was remanded in custody until September.

DI Ray Summers said: "I would like to speak to anyone who witnessed this vicious attack which we believe was unprovoked and has left a man fighting for his life.

"We're trying to establish the events that led up to the assault.

"In particular, we would like to speak to a witness who was involved in an altercation with two men near John Lewis in the city centre at around 11pm that night."

Police describe the witness as a white male, about 20 years old, with blond hair, and wearing a white Lacoste top.

He was approached by another white man wearing a grey top with purple and white hoops and a black man wearing a dark top.

DI Summers said: "I would appeal for the man wearing the Lacoste top to contact me as we believe he may hold vital information.

"We haven't had a chance to speak to the victim because he has never regained conciousness."

Anyone with information can contact DI Summers on 08458 505 505 or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

Driver breaks leg in underpass crash

A VAN driver escaped with a broken leg after his vehicle plunged 20ft on to an underpass.

The white Vauxhall van crashed through the reservations on the outside lane of the Woolstone Roundabout, on the H5, at 6.25am yesterday morning.

It fell onto a redway and careered into an embankment before coming to a stop.

Both occupants were taken to Milton Keynes Hospital but the passenger suffered only minor injuries and the driver a broken leg.

One man's shrine is another man's litter

For some people they bring tears to their eyes; for others they are street-cluttering eyesores. The controversial roadside shrines that mark the deadly junctions of Milton Keynes came under fresh scrutiny in an internet forum last month. Reporter JESSICA CUNNIFFE found out how the police, the victims' families, charities, council and residents feel about their prevalence in the city.

NEVER has one topic polarised opinion so dramatically – where one man's shrine is another man's litter.

The roadside tributes to those killed on Milton Keynes's grid roads continue to be tended with care by the relatives who erected them, while they are simultaneously derided by other residents.

Last month a debate broke out on the MK WEB forum, blasting the practice of placing flowers, pictures and objects - or, as some put it, 'monstrosities', 'eyesores', 'tat' and even 'crap' - at the scene of someone's death.

The contributors' qualms vary. There are aesthetic objections - "Surely there are graveyards for that sort of tat. Its not even tasteful" - and environmental concerns: "Keep Milton Keynes tidy, get rid of the lot."

One person even asks: "Why the Hell would you want to visit the place your relative died?!"

For Peter Fraser, whose 12-year-old step-son Barrie was killed in 2003 on the V7 Saxon Street, his reasoning for visiting the carefully-maintained tribute every week is obvious.

"It's important just to remind people," he said.

"It's a visual aid to people. We went to a big meeting we fought to keep them.

"I go and trim the grass up there. The grass cutter doesn't cut there, he leaves it for me. We still go up there every week."

Mr Fraser's stance is shared by road accident charity RoadPeace. Founder and president Brigitte Chaudhry MBE said: "Many agencies believe that road side memorials highlight a particularly dangerous stretch of road and that they can warn drivers.

"RoadPeace has had many comments from people who have said that roadside memorials make them slow down and reflect - this is exactly what we want to see happen."

Does the police, then, agree that the shrines are useful in displaying the tragic consequence of dangerous driving? Surely the succession of memorials on roads such as the H2 serves to show a particularly treacherous stretch of road.

In fact, Thames Valley Police actually objects to the practice on safety grounds.

Malcolm Collis, Manager of the Specialist Units at Thames Valley Police Roads Policing department, said: "The need for a sensible policy was recognised with the increase in roadside tributes, often on fast and unsafe roads, and the very real dangers created for those at the site and those passing. Our Family Liaison officers advise bereaved families accordingly."

The council, on whom the onus lies to balance safety and sensitivity, has cleared away two shrines this year, at Conniburrow and Malborough Street.

A council spokesman said: "Our policy to remove roadside memorials was first introduced in 2005 because they can pose a road safety risk by distracting passing motorists and to the people tending the memorials.

"We are aware of the sensitive nature of these memorials and so we have only removed two memorials over the past year following a number of complaints."

The spokesman said one of the shrines was not related to a road accident.

Despite their guidelines, which state that only memorials of flowers or bulbs will be permitted and that no new memorials are acceptable, the council only removes tributes when there are complaints.

Spokesmen deny there is a greater volume of such shrines in the city - despite forum contributors referring to the 'permanent monstrosities' springing up 'all over the city' and 'distractions that are popping up all over the place in MK'.

"I have never experienced these in other towns I have visited, you may see bunches of flowers but never the kind of stuff there seems to be in MK," adds one.

The tributes remain collectively emblematic of deaths on ours road. Since 1997 there have been between eight and 25 fatal accidents each year. Last year there were 16.

One forum contributor says: "I don't want to be reminded of a death every day while I drive past." Another adds: "Frankly I don't want to see someone's gravestone at the end of my street."

But in a post-Princess Diana era of publicly displayed grief, and while deaths on the road are as high as ever, it seems these solemn landmarks are here to stay in Milton Keynes.

MK LETTERS

Letters to The Editor, MK NEWS, 1 Diamond Court, Fox Milne, Milton Keynes MK15 0DU | letters@mk-news.co.uk

Looking forward to a flourishing university

SIR – I was heartened to read Keith Straughan's letter (August 6) in which he reassures our community that UCMK will be based upon excellence.

For many years I have been concerned by the proposals that our university be organised by the likes of the 'University' of Luton I (now Bedfordshire) and have campaigned for them not to be included in any proposal for a university for our dynamic city.

Having worked in higher education all of my working life and seen many excellent institutions such as our own OU and Cranfield, I have also seen at least one awful one!

If we wish our city to prosper then we need a university that brings out the best in our citizens and, if Dr Straughan is aiming to emulate universities such as Imperial College and Cambridge, I look forward to seeing the university flourish and the city with it.

Dr Alfred Vella
Buckingham Road, Bletchley

Offenders helping to restore Bletchley Park

SIR – Thames Valley Probation is pleased to support the work at Bletchley Park.

Offenders supervised by Thames Valley Probation carry out regeneration projects at Bletchley Park.

The work started in April 2007 and takes place once a week. The projects, to date, include painting and decorating, gardening and general maintenance.

The work Thames Valley Probation does for Bletchley Park supports its maintenance and refurbishment programme.

We use local offenders where possible, sentenced to 'Unpaid Work' (formerly Community Service) by the courts so that they are giving something back to their community under Community Payback.

Thames Valley Probation supervises groups of offenders to carry out more than 1,000 hours of 'free' labour each week in the Milton Keynes area.

The work benefiting the local community includes working for schools, charities, Milton Keynes Council, community organisations and partnerships.

The range of work can include graffiti removal, painting and decorating, landscaping, improvements to parks and community centres and estate clear ups.

Unpaid Work is the name of one of the 12 requirements that come under the generic community sentence called a Community Order.

Offenders on an Unpaid Work Requirement can be ordered by the courts to do between 40 and 300 unpaid work hours.

Sue Pearce, assistant director,
Thames Valley Probation

Big shout to ex-staff and clubbers

SIR – I was the general manager, who worked at Shout from the beginning, when it was called Chicago Rock Cafe.

When Chicago's opened in Central Milton Keynes in October 1992 it revolutionised nights in the city.

At that time it was owned by Luminar Leisure, which was a fledgling company with extraordinary vision and soon realised the potential of opening a club above a bus station in CMK.

Back then Luminar Leisure chose MK as one of the first towns in Britain to experience the unique combination of 'Music, Memories and Nostalgia' a concept that has remained popular because it wasn't modeled on any particular fashion or trend.

Back in October 1992 there was a real buzz about the place which continued right up to the end.

Chicago's was re-named Shout four years ago when Candu Entertainment took over the reins from Luminar Leisure.

Shout still enjoyed unrivalled popularity, it was a great regular night out for some and a meeting place for its hardcore of regular customers that have managed to keep it as popular as ever, even in the face of unbelievable rivalry in the form of the many new bars and clubs that opened up.

Shout was the first venue to boast a massive 'Cheers-style' bar which dominated the club along with its collection of movie and music brica-brac attached to the walls.

It always had a relaxed friendly atmosphere and, after 15 years of successful trading, it will be a great loss to many people .

But the most important thing that I believe was the heart of this much-loved club was the commitment which all staff had and the 'Dunkirk Spirit' that always shone through when the going got tough!

Many of the key staff have worked at the club for five-years plus.

I just want to say a big thank you to all our customers and staff who supported the club for many years.

It's a great shame, especially as it was still going strong even the 'credit crunch' didn't hit us as hard as it has some other pubs and clubs. In fact, our last trading night was Monday August 4 and more than 300 people enjoyed a great night with Sabotage hosting our regular 'alternative' night.

The closure of was simply due to issues with the lease that unfortunately could not be resolved

On the right parking lines with a tin of yellow paint

SIR – The Witan Gate parking fiasco highlighted by your paper demonstrates everything that is wrong with Milton Keynes today.

Milton Keynes Council blaming English Partnerships for the yellow line foul-up is like something from a comedy sketch, except it isn't funny.

And what planet is NCP boss Tim Cowen living on?

The council is the local authority with overall responsibility for the city's (crumbling) roads and parking and as such should have the backbone to get a grip of the problem instead of passing the buck.

The Highway Code clearly states there should be 'no room for doubt' when it comes to yellow lines.

What a pity MK Council doesn't apply this simple logic and have the courage to tell NCP to refund motorists instead of tiptoeing around the issue and blaming the other useless quango that is English Partnerships and bleating on about whether roads are adopted or not.

In the meantime can I suggest that Tim Cowen gets a tin of yellow paint and personally solves this riddle and paints the lines himself?

Just for the record, I've lived in Milton Keynes for more than 20 years, never had a parking ticket, don't know what roads are adopted by whom and don't care either.

I've watched in dismay as Central Milton Keynes is turned into a 70s retro slum; traffic lights slow me down needlessly at roundabouts; council tax spirals and services dwindle.

What a pity Milton Keynes Council has let this city go to the wall.

Sharon Wallis

Cycle store safety

SIR – I read your article in your Green News section of the paper last week regarding travellers finding more eco-friendly means of getting to the train station.

I am a regular user of the train station and would welcome being asked by someone how I think things can be improved.

For a start there is a need for more secure cycle storage to be built.

I cycle three miles from my home to catch a train at least three times a week.

I currently leave my cycle chained at one of the existing cycle sheds, however, I am never totally sure that I will see the bike when I return as they are not that well protected.

I do not know what the figures of theft from the railway station are but I am sure they are high compared to some of the places up the city centre which have the benefit of better security like CCTV.

Lets hope this new Station Travel Plan actually puts some of its recommendations into practice.

Fun day thanks

SIR – On behalf of the Netherfield Residents Association I would like to thank everyone who was involved with the Netherfield Fun Day on Saturday.

The event was to bring residents together with the agencies that work on Netherfield in a fun way and to promote the services that are available to residents.

The agencies involved this year were the Hedgerows Buddies, Surestart, MKC Recycling, PDC anti-smoking, MKC Youth services, ARK wildlife, TVP, Business solutions, Netherfield Chapel, WPC, MKC TP team, Bradville R/A, Beanhill A/G.

Unfortunately the weather wasn't very kind to us this year, but it did not stop the residents who attended having fun, the kids loved the Bungee Run Bouncy Castleand games. Despite the rain it did not put them off and we still managed to have the tug of war, which was won by the girls.

The DJ Ian from Let's Party did really well and played tunes all dayx.

We would like to say a special thank you to Stephen Conway Jewellers for a lovely gold amethyst ring, Marshalls of Bletchley, Sainsburys CMK, John Lewis CMK, the market stall traders CMK, Potton Window Contractors,MITIE contractors, Netherfield Local Co-op, off licence and Leaf It Out florists, all these people donated prizes for our raffle and games which were greatly appreciated.

Running these events is hard work and time consuming and you worry that the event won't go well, but when you see how much joy it brings to the residents and the contributions of others involved it makes it all worth while and makes you proud of the community.

See you all next year!

Parking rip-off

SIR – I visited Central Milton Keynes on Sunday on a shopping trip, only to find that the parking areas, previously free at weekends, are now being charged.

As there was in inordinate number of unused parking spaces, I have to assume that others, like me, feel that we are being ripped off. The introduction of parking charges has had a detrimental effect and shopkeepers in the centre will have noticed a drop in trade. This is pure greed on the part of the council.

Obviously plenty of people like me feel miffed at the principle of having to pay for parking at the weekend when all we want to do is shop, thus creating and keeping local jobs.

I suspect that 'a council spokesman' will try to justify the charges. The right thing to do is to revert to the status quo and invite us back to spend our money in their shopping centre.

Gutted: Charlotte Axten outside the stable block devastated by arsonists on Saturday night

Pet ponies escape stable block blaze

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

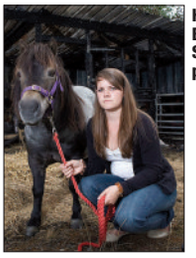
TWO ponies had a narrow escape after arsonists set fire to a block of stables.

The stables, just off Stratford Road, Whaddon, went up in smoke on Saturday at around 7.45pm.

Fire engines rushed to the scene after a neighbour alerted the stables' owner about the blaze.

The ponies, a Shetland called Billy and a Cob called Mary-Lou, had been out grazing only yards from the stable when the fire occurred.

Yesterday firemen took fire investigation dogs to the scene to check for any signs of flammable liquids that might help to identify the root of the fire.



Homeless: Billy the Shetland pony

The owner of the ponies, 16-year-old Charlotte Axten, said: "It's such a pointless waste and such a dangerous thing to do."

Charlotte visits the ponies every day and is planning to study horses at Northampton College next term.

The stables contained no valuables and were used simply to store food and shelter the animals.

The charred shell will now have to be rebuilt before the shelter can be used again.

Stables owner Peter Taylor said: "Luckily the ponies weren't in there, they were out in the paddock. I would like people to keep their eyes open. If anyone spotted a strange car or anyone acting suspiciously they might be able to help us."

Buckinghamshire Fire and Rescue Service confirmed that it was treating the fire as suspected arson.

On-line save Bletchley Park petition hits No10's top ten

A PETITION to save the historical buildings at Bletchley Park has broken into the top ten on the Downing Street website.

The petition reached number nine on the website yesterday, proving more popular than a petition to reduce the tax on petrol by 20p per litre and one asking the Prime Minister not to support a state funeral for Baroness Thatcher.

More than 10,700 names have been added to Darren McGuicken's independent petition appealing to the PM to help save Bletchley Park.

In May MK NEWS reported that the home of the codebreakers is in danger of falling apart unless it can raise millions of pounds within the next four years.

The site is recognised by historians for its vital role in helping the allies to win the war but trust director, Simon Greenish, says that the charity has no money to repair its rotting buildings.

Mr Greenish said: "This support is staggering, it shows how much people care about this place."

Three weeks ago Prince Charles declared his support for the cause during a tour of the museum.

The iconic Victorian Mansion requires in the region of £1 million for repairs to the roof and some of the symbolic codebreaking huts are in a desperate state of decay.

The Trust is a charity which aims to build a world class heritage site and educational centre but it receives no ongoing public funding.

Deaf-blind man attacked and robbed

A DEAF and partially blind man was hit on the head and robbed on Saturday night.

The 41-year-old man was walking from Lloyds Court, CMK, across the bridge which leads to Cranesbill Place, Conniburrow at 11pm when he was knocked to the floor from behind.

His wallet, keys and a small amount of cash from his pockets.

He was taken to Milton Keynes Hospital and treated for a minor head injury and later discharged.

The offender is a man, possibly a teenager, and was wearing black clothing.

Summer time and the thieving is easy

Over the past six weeks 15 homes have been burgled because the owner left a window open. MK NEWS reporter Rob Gibson met one of the victims

THERE is no reason to think that a quiet Bletchley cul-de-sac is a particular hotbed of criminal activity.

But there have been a spate of burglaries in this area and across Milton Keynes as warmer temperatures lead to more windows being left open and unguarded.

As I approach the four-bedroom home with Thames Valley Police crime prevention adviser Ed Allington, there is nothing to suggest that the house is particularly vulnerable or indeed tempting to a burglar.

The owner is a 40-year-old woman who tells us that she was burgled in the early hours of Monday, July 28.

She does not want to be identified for fear that she may be targeted again but by the time we leave it is clear that the house will be a much trickier target for burglars in future.

The victim said: "It had been a very hot Sunday and I had the windows open during the day. I've had these open for two years and nothing has ever happened. We forgot to close them and we were up in bed asleep when it happened."

She shows us the slender, double-glazed living room windows which handed the burglar easy access to the home. There were five people in the house when the burglar spotted the small open window.

Mr Allington explains that the culprit would either have squeezed his body through or used a wire lever to pull open the lever on the larger, adjoining window.

Not one of the occupants was woken and the victim only realised she had been burgled hours later, at 6.30am, when her husband could not find his mobile and she noticed that the larger window was wide open.

She said: "I thought 'we didn't leave it like that, someone has been in here!' I looked around and my handbag was gone."

The burglar had also taken all of her bank cards, £35 cash and her husband's wallet.

"It serves me right, I shouldn't have left it open," the victim said.

"You get enough warnings about this sort of thing and the risks in summer but sometimes we just forget. The curtains are closed but the windows are still open and you go to bed.

"This has definitely made me more cautious about closing the windows in future."

Mr Allington proceeds to give the woman a handful of Home Office leaflets with tips about keeping her home safe and talks her through possible measures, including locking all windows, not leaving the key in the front door and keeping her valuables hidden.

Mr Allington said: "Window restrictors can be used to limit how far open the window can go.

"Burglars want to be in and out in a matter of seconds and any open window is an opportunity for them.

"Simple steps like locking the windows will make the difference between becoming a victim or not."

Finally Mr Allington marks all of the valuables in the house with SmartWater, an invisible solution with its own unique DNA, which can be traced back to the owner if stolen.

■ A week after the burglary police arrested a 16-year-old boy in connection with the incident, following a stop search in Fenny Stratford. He was found with stolen bank cards and further stolen items were recovered at his home address. The boy, who can not be identified for legal reasons, appeared in court last week, charged with six counts of burglary.

TOP TIPS FOR BEATING BURGLARS

LOCK UP: make sure all doors and windows have locks and are kept locked when you are not in the room. Fit chains on doors and restrictors on windows.

KEEP KEYS SAFE: make sure all keys including car keys are kept in a safe place, out of sight and reach of doors and windows.

DON'T SHOW IT OFF: try not to leave valuables where they can easily be seen from the window. Security mark all your property and display signs to say you have done this.

Bollards to benches - square needs a lift

THIS artist's impression shows a £1.2million plan to change the face of City Square.

The application will form part of thecentre:mk's £20million enhancement programme that includes the recently granted planning application for a new restaurant quarter at Queens Court.

City Square, near Marks & Spencer, was originally designed as a space where people can meet, sit, talk and watch the world go by, but the space has become increasingly less pedestrian-friendly as bollards and benches clutter the area.

Milton Keynes Council is now considering a planning application, submitted by Hermes Real Estate and PRUPIM, which aims shift the focus towards open events and covered seating.

It includes a permanent kiosk that will serve food and drink all year round, with seating for 140 people and space for two temporary kiosks to boost the food and drink facilities during the summer.

The new plans would also completely redesign the landscaping, with triangular raised areas of grass to take maximum advantage of the sun.

These areas will incorporate seating along the edges and give people the opportunity to sit, relax and admire the views.

Jon Weymouth of PRUPIM, and development manager for thecentre:mk, said: "We recognise that City Square does not fulfil its potential as a welcoming meeting place for visitors to the city centre but we believe our new proposals turn this around.

"Our proposals will make City Square easier to walk through and also improve the environment, making it a pleasant outdoor space in the heart of Milton Keynes where people can relax, also creating a new open area that will become the focus for performances and activities during the summer months.

If approved the work on City Square would begin in late autumn, to be completed by next summer.

Robert Goodman, director at thecentre:mk said: "These enhancements are designed to help Milton Keynes maintain its attractiveness and competitiveness as a regional shopping destination and to help ensure thecentre:mk retains its status as the retail heart of Milton Keynes and one of the most vibrant shopping centres in the country."

Crafty fag costs pub pair £2,000

A CRAFTY cigarette caught on a CCTV camera has left a pub manager and her barman husband almost £2,000 out of pocket.

In the first prosecution of its kind in Milton Keynes, Marjorie and Peter Hogg, of the Netherfield Tavern, appeared before Milton Keynes Magistrates on Friday for breaking the smoking ban.

The court heard that there had been numerous complaints about smoking being allowed on the premises, with Mrs Hogg directing people to the function room to smoke.

However the last straw came in March this year – when police found CCTV footage taken inside the bar area of Mr Hogg and a customer enjoying a cigarette.

Mrs Hogg was fined £800 after admitting one offence of failing to stop someone smoking, under Section 8(4) of the Health Act 2006.

Her husband Peter was fined £100 after pleading guilty in writing to smoking in a smoke free place under section 7(2) of the same Act.

Magistrates also ordered the pair to pay £900 costs between them.

In October last year MKC enforcement staff visited and found customers smoking in the pub's function room. A verbal warning was given to Mrs Hogg, followed up by a warning letter in November 2007.

No further complaints were received until March 11, 2008 when police reportedthat smoking was being allowed in the pub.

A visit made during early evening confirmed this.

CCTV also recorded footage of the barman Peter Hogg smoking behind the bar.

MKC Community Protection Manager Phil Winsor said: "This is the first prosecution of this type that we have had to bring in Milton Keynes, and we hope it sends a clear message to all employers."

500 cannabis plants seized in police raid

FIVE hundred cannabis plants were seized in a drugs raid.

A 27-year-old man was arrested following the raid at 10.15am on Friday, at a home in Bedford Street, Wolverton.

He was arrested on suspicion of production of cannabis and was questioned at Milton Keynes police station.

Officers targeted the address after receiving intelligence that suggested cannabis plants were being cultivated on a large scale.

Intelligence Officer PC Gary Miller said: "Obviously we are really pleased with the outcome of this warrant.

"We have managed to put a stop to a significant cannabis production operation and make an arrest in connection with it.

"The public plays an important role in helping the police tackle drug crime and I would urge residents to contact us if they have any information about drugs in their community."

The city grid system works – so don't fix it

Independent research shows overwhelming majority of MK residents don't want any changes

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

'THE grid system works and we don't want it tampered with'.

This is the message sent to Milton Keynes planners by a survey of local residents on the future of local transport.

The results, released by independent market research company ICM, revealed that 87 per cent of the city's citizens believe the grid roads work, 84 per cent don't wish to see the system tampered with and only 10 per cent would be happy if it didn't exist.

The survey was commissioned by the Citizens Advisory Group on Transport (CAGOT), an independent group set up by Milton Keynes Council to review transport in Milton Keynes.

The report gave a stark warning to city planners.

The report states that: 'given these findings, there can be little doubt that any moves away from the grid system would be deeply, and pretty much universally unpopular.'

'The grid has engendered a deeply held popular appeal, partially underpinned by a love of its uniqueness, and partly as a result of its fast and efficient management of traffic flow,' the report adds.

The research has been welcomed by transport users of all kinds including motorists, pensioners and cyclists.

Dr Louise Thomas, a member of Milton Keynes Advanced Motorists, said: "As a grid road and redway user in MK, I was pleased to see the results of the survey show that the grid system works.

"We know it does; where else in the UK can you cross a city or town in less than 10 minutes at rush-hour - if a road is blocked you've got a whole range of alternative routes.

"Surely the council and the powers that be must take this on board."

The survey also revealed that most people in Milton Keynes would like to see investment put into improving bus services.

Even car commuters indicate a greater preference for bus investment than they do for investment in roads.

Dr Thomas added: "More people are actually becoming environmentally aware and perhaps financially restricted as well and want to use the redways and bus services more and more."

Sixty-five per cent of elderly people voted for bus services to be improved.

Peter Ballantyne, spokesman for MK Pensioners Association, said: "With the current state of public transport in Milton Keynes, it is not a surprise that the survey discovers that the elderly find it difficult to get around MK.

"As a member of the National Pensioners Convention Transport Committee, I am sad to report that Milton Keynes' public transport situation is among the worst in the country."

He called for a more reliable service with better maintained buses but is doubtful the survey will see a response from the council, which has limited control over buses in the area.

"Unless they take firmer control and plan correctly for the future, then the survey has no value," he added.

John Hawthorn, who recently set up a petition to save Milton Keynes' grid roads on the Prime Minister's website, hopes the council will rethink its plans not to extend the system into the expansion areas. Unfortunately both the council and Milton Keynes Partnership (MKP) claim that 'consultation' has been carried out to ensure support for the expansion design - this survey shows just how untrue that assertion is," he said.

Theo Chalmers, founder of Urban Eden, which aims to preserve Milton Keynes' original structure, said the survey is the first 'unbiased' consultation on transport he has seen.

"I would like this to be an electric shock to the people at MKP and the council," he added.

Cllr Douglas McCall, cabinet member for transport at Milton Keynes Council, said: "This is only a small part of the work being done by CAGOT whose full report will be presented to cabinet in October.

"The survey contains a lot of interesting information which I am sure CAGOT will take into account as part of their work."

He added: "MK Council works closely with the bus companies to try and ensure as best a public transport system as possible.

"Although the council does not control the buses we can take action to improve the transport network to make the movement of buses easier."

John Lewis, Milton Keynes Partnership chief executive said: "Transport policy is created by Milton Keynes Council and guides the work we are doing in the expansion areas of Milton Keynes and in other parts of the city. We look forward to working with the council and other partners to learn how CAGOT might influence future transport policy."

Council looking to eat into food waste mountain

New contractor promises to recycle half of city's rubbish in next two years

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

FOOD and garden waste is to be collected weekly for free across Milton Keynes in an effort to boost recycling.

The new waste contract for the city, announced yesterday, will introduce the collections in July next year.

The council hopes the scheme, which has been trialled successfully in Bradwell Common for three years, will help reach its target of recycling half of all waste by 2020.

Milton Keynes Council now recycles 36 per cent – above the current national target of 30 per cent.

Next year's £80m waste contract has been awarded to Serco, a national company which specialises in providing local government services.

The company will take over from Cory next March for an initial seven-year period.

Andy Hudson, chief waste management engineer at the council, explained: "We have a very good dry recycling rate in Milton Keynes but if you look in the bins a lot of the waste is organics, food and garden waste, so we have looked at a way of targeting that to get it out of landfill.

"What Serco is promising is a 55 per cent recycling rate by 2010/11, which I understand at the moment will put us the best in the country."

From July, residents will be given free kitchen caddies to put their food waste in.

When full the waste will be transferred to wheelie bins also used for garden waste, ready to be collected weekly.

In properties with little or no garden, food waste can be collected alone in separate bins.

The council hopes the scheme will save money in the long-term as taking waste to landfill gets more and more expensive.

Mr Hudson added: "The reason that we can afford to do it free is we are limited in how much of this organic waste we can put into landfill and if we don't meet those allowances we get fined £150 per tonne. The allowance for Milton Keynes doesn't allow for growth; we have lobbied the Government heavily against that but it won't move so we are putting our effort into rolling out the collections.

"In 2020 if we don't implement this scheme, to give you a worst case scenario, the fine would be £11million in one year."

The council also hopes the scheme will stop organic waste from decomposing in landfill producing methane gas.

The waste will initially be taken to a composting plant near High Wycombe but the council plans to procure its own service closer to Milton Keynes.

It is also looking at ways of using the waste to produce energy.

Sixth of the best

YOUNG Milton Keynes learners will reap the benefits of being taught in high-quality and well-equipped learning environments, thanks to the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) investing nearly £9 million to fund new sixth form buildings in two local schools.

Oakgrove Secondary School, located on the east flank of the city and The Hazeley School located on Milton Keynes' west flank, will, from September 2009, have modern state of the art sixth form facilities.

Both schools, which were originally mixed comprehensives, will have their first intake of sixth form students at this time.

This will be the first part of a two phase expansion programme for Hazeley School, which is scheduled to have a second phase of their sixth form building opening in September 2010.

The total project cost for Oakgrove's building will be £5,846.894, with the LSC contributing £4,735,984, 81% of the total funding.

Hazeley's sixth form facility will be built at a total project cost of £5,175.626, again including an 81% contribution from the LSC, at a cost of £4,192.257.

Milton Keynes Council will fund the remaining 19 per cent of both new buildings.

The financial support for the new facilities becomes available through the LSC's, the organisation that exists to make England better skilled and more competitive, post-16 capital funding programme.

LSC Area Director for Thames Valley, Bob Walding said: "The LSC clearly recognises that there is a need for new sixth form places in the east and west flank of Milton Keynes. Therefore, we are delighted to prioritise the interests of the learner by investing nearly £9 million to meet this demand.

"We must encourage young people to stay on in education and the chances of this will be greatly enhanced if they are given the opportunity to be taught in an inspiring and stimulating learning environment.

"With increased knowledge and skills being the competitive advantage for the South East, it is crucial to recognise the value of learning and how critical it is for young people as they embark on their career of choice.

"Therefore, by investing in local education, the LSC is investing in the next workforce generation in Milton Keynes."

Pupils take savings into account

OXLEY Park Primary School is banking on a new lesson to be a hit with pupils

With the support of NatWest's Cathy Bailey together with head teacher Cathy Higgins pupils have set up their own school bank to help them understand more about banking and the basics of managing money.

The bank will be run by the pupils and teachers.

All pupils will have the opportunity to open an account and pay in money. They will also receive regular account statements, which NatWest staff will go through with them. This will help them to understand the process of running a bank account and see their savings grow.

The project is part of NatWest MoneySense for Schools' – a national programme to develop business and financial skills among young people.

Mrs Higgins said: "It's very important that students gain basic money management even at this young age and setting up, running and using their own bank is an extremely practical and fun way of doing this."

Provisional SATs results show all-round improvement

SCHOOLCHILDREN have scored well in this year's SATs tests according to provisional results.

Pupils in Milton Keynes have received improved scores for English, science and maths.

The results sent out last Wednesday are only preliminary results, following the marking scandal earlier this year in which many schools found anomalies in the way student's work was marked.

Many students will not receive confirmed results until September.

However, Milton Keynes Council confirmed that 80 per cent of pupils achieved level four or higher in the key stage two exams, aimed at 11-year-olds.

That represents a three per cent increase on last year.

Science results improved by one per cent as 88 per cent of pupils achieved level four or above, and maths results increased by the same ratio to 78 per cent.

Clair Thomas, from Milton Keynes Children's Trust, said: "We're pleased with the results but we're keen to say that they are only provisional results as some papers have gone back to be re-marked.

"We're pleased because we're in line with the national figures for maths and science and only a percentage point below in English."

Standard Assessment Tests are used to show a child's progress compared with other children born in the same month.

MK Dons pitch in with shirts for Rwandans

MK Dons can now claim to have fans as far away as Rwanda following a two week voluntary project lead by city MP Mark Lancaster.

Mark lead a team of volunteers who built a six-a-side football pitch just outside the capital Kigali for kids many of whom were orphaned after the tragic genocide in the country in 2004.

The MK Dons kindly donated a number of home and away kits for the kids to wear at the grand opening of the pitch last Saturday by the president of Rwanda Paul Kigami.

After the opening, Mark said: "It has been tremendously hard work but up until last week these kids literally had nowhere to play and seeing them run around the pitch as happy as Larry has made all the effort worthwhile.

"We actually finished the pitch two days early but it got so much use that we had to repaint the goal posts twice before the President officially opened it."

"I am so grateful to Pete and the MK Dons for the kits, it made all the difference at the opening and the kids were so thrilled that they were still wearing them three days later!"

Room with a view – executive boxes at stadiummk

While football took a break over the summer, work continued at stadiummk and supporters are now able to enjoy the game from new, plush hospitality boxes.

The ground is now home to 24 executive boxes located in the upper tier of the west stand which cost from £10,000 to £12,000.

They include a private balcony with padded seats for ten people and will eventually double-up as pitch view rooms for the hotel which is hoped will be open by April next year.

As part of the clubBlack package guests are able to soak up the match-day atmosphere with half-time refreshments, optional in-box catering, match-day programmes and team sheets.

Dance chance

Dragons' Den company is looking to train up new talent

AN entertainment company which dazzled on a BBC programme is looking to recruit the talent of Milton Keynes.

Dance 4 Me, which secured £75,000 from multi-millionaire businessmen Duncan Bannatyne and James Caan on Dragons' Den, is looking for entertainers – including dancers, singers, actors and musicians or even dance troupes.

However they stipulate that women who apply must be sized 8-10 and men must be medium build.

Amy Goldthorpe, events co-ordinator at Dance 4 Me, is asking that men and women, aged between 18-25, send in CVs and pictures of themselves.

They are offering the chance to learn stilt-walking, fire-breathing and glow poi on their activity days and to work on nightclub openings and other events.

She said: "We are running this competition to encourage people to get into the industry.

"We're always looking for new entertainers and people to help us with the events. The best people are the ones with no experience and we train them to be a dedicated D4M performer."

One of Dance 4 Me's performer plays host at a function dispensing drinks dressed as a table

MKNEWSBRIEFS

It's serious for Peter

PETER Knight from The Entertainer has been named as the second monthly winner of thecentre:mk's customer service scheme, the Serious Service awards.

Peter was nominated for the award for excellent customer service after spending extra time with a customer to find the right present and ringing round several stores to find a particular toy that the shopper was looking for.

As general manager Peter decided not to keep his prize of a Sony digital camera but offer it as a monthly sales incentive for his team.

"Winning this month's serious service award is fantastic news," said Peter. "However, this achievement should be shared by my team who do an equally good job when dealing with customers.

"The Serious Service Awards are proving to be a great feedback mechanism with our customers. Because they come through thecentre:mk customers feel more objective so we know that a positive comment isn't just lip service. That's why we've implemented them as part of our performance review of staff."

SNAP, crackle and pop

SNAP up a designer dress and enjoy a great day out too.

The Swan at Salford is the setting once again for SNAP up a Frock, the annual extravaganza of fabulous designer dress shopping, champagne sipping and lunching all for charity.

The event takes place on Saturday, September 13.

The fundraiser is in aid of the Milton Keynes based charity SNAP which helps young adults with learning difficulties.

Designer outfits and accessories including some specially donated by Nicole Farhi will be available to browse through and try on.

There will also be advice on the day on how to get the look you are after followed by a champagne reception and lunch.

Sally Fennemore, fundraising co-ordinator for SNAP said: "This year's event promises to be bigger and more glamorous than before.

"There will be some fantastic designer labels on the day, with styles to suit everyone, as well as having the chance to have a pampering makeover. Why not treat yourself to a stunning new outfit and bag a great day out into the bargain.

Swan owner Andrew Coath added: "Last year we raised £8,000 and this time we're hoping we'll be able to raise even more money for a great cause."

City businesses back The Last Days festival

MILTON Keynes businesses have thrown their weight behind the coolest new music festival.

The Last Days of Summer music festival takes place at Stowe House Country Estate on Bank Holiday Monday, August 25 and features Supergrass, Richard Ashcroft, Athlete, Fun Lovin' Criminals, The Rascals, Young Knives and Royworld.

Your favourite local newspaper MK NEWS, leading home of winter sports SNO!Zone, streetwear retailer Extreme Central, local commercial radio Horizon Radio, music specialists Zavvi Milton Keynes and website MiltonKeynes.com are all working with organisers Toast Events to promote The Last Days of Summer and are keen to sound a rallying cry for the region's first large, international outdoor music festival.

MK NEWS is the media partner for the festival, general manager Jonathan Cropley said: "We were more than happy for MK's best read local newspaper to help support the event through editorial and advertising. We are confident that the newspaper's 140,000-plus weekly readers will support such a high profile event on MK's doorstep.

"The newspaper is running regular articles and previews before the festival and will be featuring coverage of it on-line and in-print afterwards."

Lucy Drayton, Marketing Assistant at Milton Keynes SNO!Zone, said: "It's not often that the area gets an event as big as this right on its doorstep and so we jumped at the chance to work on The Last Days of Summer. We're also going to be building a huge snow beach and snowboard simulator."

Mark Ridel, owner of Extreme Central, the clothing retailer in Xscape added: "We feel strongly that local people and businesses should help support one another.

"We really want Last Days to be the success it can be this year and for the future."

Chris Greg, Horizon Radio, programme controller added: "We felt it was very important to get behind this event. The Last Days of Summer is the first major music festival in this area and anyone who is into music can't fail to be excited by the line-up."

Ken Drewery, store manager at Zavvi Milton Keynes enthused: "It's great that a festival that's not too far away and doesn't have all the hype like a Glastonbury or V is going on a stone's throw from Milton Keynes.

"I also wanted to help because Toast is a local company which wants to give this region a yearly festival of its own."

miltonkeynes.com's Gareth Davies concluded: "This is a major event with major acts and we want to make it as big a success as possible."

The Last Days of Summer tickets are priced at £39.50 plus booking fee and available from Extreme Central at Xscape, miltonkeynes.com, www.seetickets.com or by calling 0871 220 0260. VIP tickets are also available.

Dons heroes have a 'popper' at shooting

VISITORS to the annual Fenny Poppers Festival will go head-to-head with two MK Dons players in a shoot-out on the streets.

The festival was a big hit last year, attracting more than 3,000 visitors, and this Sunday Dons chairman Pete Winkelman and local heroes Dean Lewington and Sam Baldock will be among the guests to visit Aylesbury Street.

The players will each see how many balls they can kick through an inflatable target in one minute before the punters are invited to beat their score.

Bletchley Turf has again donated the grass that will transform the road into a village green. This year events include the church fete, archery, historic buses, birds of prey, bouncy castle, fairground rides and a scuba diving pool. There will also be the firing of the Fenny Poppers, six small ceremonial canons dating back to the 18th century.

Organiser Jon Gregory said: "This year's festival promises to be another great day out for the whole family. It will be interesting to see if any of the locals manage to out-shoot the Dons players too."

The fun starts at 11am until 6pm.

Going off with a bang: Father Victor Bullock lights the fuse of a Fenny Popper to start last year's festival

You wait ages for a bus, then 60 turn up

A BUS rally which gives people free rides on historical vehicles makes the journey to Milton Keynes this Sunday.

Around 60 former London Transport and provincial buses from the 1950s,1960s and 1970s will be gathered at the Central Bus Station in Central Milton Keynes on from 10am until 5pm.

After three successful years in Leighton Buzzard the event has moved to Milton Keynes for a bigger and better show, showcasing and giving people a chance to ride for free on the iconic Routemaster vehicle as well as its predecessors the RT, the RF and the GS types.

They will provide visitors with a pleasant ride of between 30 and 45 minutes around the sights of Milton Keynes and also link up with the Fenny Poppers festival.

Other attractions include trade and enthusiast stalls, food and refreshments, two bouncy castles, a face painter and a raffle.

COMPETITION

Win a LivingColors LED lamp from John Lewis

DO you remember when the only way to find out what was on a brides' gift list was to talk to her mother, via a phone box and not a mobile phone, and to ask 'who has got the book'?

At that point you were probably advised that great auntie Beryl had got it and that it hadn't yet been returned!

So with the wedding rapidly approaching you would have chased the book in order to tear out the page of your choice and then made your way out with the crowds to your nearest store, only to find your chosen item out of stock and you out of time.

In today's Internet age you can be sat comfortably in a chair – at home or half way around the world – and simply pick the gift(s) of your choice from an easy-to-navigate electronic listing.

John Lewis can set up a list for you for any special occasion you can think of, or you can set up the list yourself online, simply visiting the store to select from over 350,000 products with the aid of a simple electronic device.

We can also supply the gift list inserts for your guests, order your bespoke stationery and deliver all of your gifts on an agreed date, with the delivery being free in most cases.

John Lewis Gift List is completely stress free, leaving you time to concentrate on what matters, your celebration.

MK NEWS has teamed up with the store to give you a chance of winning one of the top five gift ideas. All you have to do is complete the competition form below.

This week a Philips LivingColors LED lamp worth £100 is up for grabs.

Using the touch sensitive remote control, LivingColors allows you to choose from an infinite number of colours, choosing lighting effects to change the atmosphere, match your mood and suit every occasion.

It contains four light-emitting diodes (LEDs) which can be increased, reduced, brightened or dimmed to produce a total of 16 million different colours.

You can use the remote to control up to 6 separate lights allowing even greater flexibility and personalising larger spaces.

Week 4 - Win a Philips LivingColors LED Lamp.
(Closing date: Tues August 19, 2008 @6pm)

Better access to arts for disabled

Open evening at MK Theatre and MK Gallery

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

DO you consider yourself disabled and have an interest in the arts, but don't feel that you can access them?

On Tuesday, August 19 Milton Keynes Theatre and Milton Keynes Gallery will jointly be holding a free open access evening to promote the artistic and educational programme opportunities both venues have to offer to the visually impaired, deaf and disabled.

The evening will include audio described guided tours of the current exhibition by Richard Woods at Milton Keynes Gallery, an opportunity to go on to the main stage at Milton Keynes Theatre, take part in a 'costume insight' and meet staff from both venues.

There will also be an opportunity for regular and new arts attenders to register an interest in joining a new Theatre and Gallery Disability Access Steering Group.

The group will give feedback on current disability access provision and inform future developments in terms of customer services, venue facilities and programme accessibility for the whole community.

Jodie Gibson, education and outreach manager for Milton Keynes Theatre, said: "Our buildings were designed to be fully accessible to the disabled.

"However this initiative is broader in terms of our desire to explore with our visitors and patrons how we can provide an even better service and encourage the widest possible attendance and participation."

The event will begin in the Milton Keynes Theatre foyer at 5.30pm. There will be BSL interpreters available throughout the evening.

■ For more information call Jodie Gibson at Milton Keynes Theatre on 01908 547606, or e-mail jodiegibson@theambassadors.com

Hospital cash to extend patient care time

PLANS to improve patient safety and care at Milton Keynes Hospital have been boosted by £96,000 funding.

The money, from the NHS Institute for Innovation and Improvement, will go towards a programme to improve patient safety, empower staff to be more productive and enable staff to spend more time caring for patients.

The money will be used over the next year to improve five wards.

Designed by nurses, the 'Releasing Time to Care: Productive Ward' programme will help nurses focus more on directly caring for their patients.

Research into the activity of nurses across the country indicates that nurses spend less than half of their time administering patient care.

A hospital spokesman said: "It's envisaged that Productive Ward's focus on improving ward processes and environments will help nurses and therapists spend more time on patient care thereby improve safety and efficiency."

Tasks such as medication rounds and meal rounds will be redesigned to ensure they are patient-focused and easier for staff.

Mary Sexton, director of nursing, said: "NHS staff want to spend more time with patients. Being part of the programme should help patients get better, faster care and reduce length of stay."

BACK PAIN?

Painkillers and a sheet of exercises are not your only options

A large trial funded by the Medical Research Council in 1990 concluded that CHIROPRACTIC TREATMENT was 30% more effective than hospital outpatient management, mainly for patients with chronic or severe lower back pain.
A follow up trial in 1995 confirmed patients with lower back pain treated by Chiropractors derived more benefit and long term satisfaction than those treated by hospitals.

On Sunday 17th August from 11am to 6pm, the local community of Fenny Stratford invite you to attend the Fenny Poppers Festival of 2008.

After the success from last year's very first Fenny Poppers Festival of which over 5,000 people attended, Fenny Stratford has again organised an event that promises to be even better in its second year. The festival is a fun day for all the family to celebrate an area of Milton Keynes that truly has a long historical significance. A charitable element of the festival is to raise money for the church as well as raising awareness of the extremely diverse and experienced range of businesses, specialists and services located within Fenny Stratford.

Aylesbury Street will again allow locals to enjoy an action packed day which includes fair rides, international food stalls and even the chance to scuba dive! A stage will be based at the end of the road, featuring a selection of bands, singers and dancers of which full schedule can be seen to the right hand of this page.

Come and give your support and enjoy the festival in Aylesbury Street, the heart of Fenny Stratford.

I KISSED A GIRL

Kate Perry

BIG deal, so have I, but you don't see me writing songs about it do you?

Now then, if you cast your mind back a mere four years there were a couple of one-hit wonders having themselves a very public slanging match, namely Eamon and Frankee. Eamon had his say first, giving his "ex-girlfriend" a proper verbal mauling, and was then knocked off the top of the charts by Frankee, who used a remarkably similar tune to vent her anger.

Their songs screamed 'blatant marketing ploy' which used the age-old formula of Controversial Subject Matter = Surefire Number One.

It worked for Je T'Aime, it sure as hell worked for Relax (take a bow, Mike Read) and it worked a treat for Eamon and Frankee. It's also going to work for Katy Perry too.

I don't know her well enough to be able to judge whether she actually believes what she's singing or whether it's all been done solely to make her famous, but things don't quite add up.

As for the tune, well, that's alright actually. Electropop seems to be the in thing with female singers these days, what with Sophie Ellis Bextor, Ashlee Simpson and somebody else, and this is more of the same. Perfectly serviceable stuff but, as to whether this is a proper song or just a marketing gimmick, time will tell.

Just wondering though, if an unknown male singer brought out a song called I Kissed A Boy, would that be a hit?

OMG

City Girls

THIS is a song about deleting Internet stalkers from your MySpace profile.

How utterly ridiculous. I mean, seriously, MySpace?

Everyone knows that all the cool kids are on Facebook and Bebo these days.

Thing is, if you want to communicate with the kids of today, you can't go around using complete words because their brains can't handle that much information.

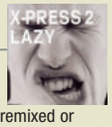
You can't say 'Oh my God' any more, it's OMG. There are other abbreviations hidden in the chorus, like LOL, FAO and IMO, and as if that's not enough to speed up the delivery of the lyrics, they even omit the 's' from 'do the maths'.

And, of course, because children apparently don't go outside and play any more there are plenty of computer-related analogies to be found too.

What we've got here sounds suspiciously like 'Tonight Matthew, we're going to be Girls Aloud'. Makes you wonder if these bands know something we don't. If Fall Out Boy's next single sounds like Girls Aloud, then there's DEFINITELY something fishy going on.

As for this one, it's OK, but that's all it is.

LAZY



X-Press 2 featuring David Byrne

SOMETIMES old songs get remixed or updated and a lot of the time I wonder why they bothered. On the face of it, you'd think Lazy would be one of those songs that X-Press 2 would want to leave well alone.

After all, it was their biggest hit by a mile and. because it is the song that most people remember them for, Lazy is a song that wasn't broken, so somebody fixed it anyway and the end result is different. Almost completely different, actually.

The vocals are the same, but the original tune's been liquidated and a new one has started trading in its place. This is one of the few remixes that can actually stand side by side with its predecessor and not look remotely embarrassed.

THE MUMMY: TOMB OF THE DRAGON EMPEROR – THE FILM

THE Mummy series continues as floppy-haired adventurer Rick battles resurrected Chinese Emperor (Jet Li) taking him on a journey with his son Alex, wife Evelyn (Maria Bello) and brother-in-law Jonathan (John Hannah).

You'll never guess what – the evil Emperor wants to take over the whole world with his demonic powers, the cheek of it!

OK, so the first two films we're pretty good fun but this one is a bandage too far.

It's all a bit been there, done that and the oddest thing is that they have replaced Rachel Weisz with an actress who quite simply doesn't sound English.

This would be fine if she wasn't supposed to be an aristocratic English archaeologist type.

The again I am not 12-years-old and my guess is that if I was then I might think this was all very exciting.

So if you're taking the kids then it will probably work but if you are going to see it as a fun, grown-up popcorn movie then go and see a good grown-up popcorn movie instead.

I'm willing to bet the mummy franchise will be entombed after this effort.

BELLA'S BLOG

Ciao bambinos! Missed me? It can't have been easy having yourselves ripped from my literary bosom for a couple of weeks, but I'm back in all my womanly glory for another week at the MK News. Well, the exciting news this week is that because Xscape thought I did SUCH a good job writing for them a couple of weeks ago, they've given me my own office!!! It overlooks the snow slope,and is right next door to the security office...PLENTY of eye candy for Bella in both directions!!!!!!

So, the good news is, I've managed to spend every day on the beach over the last week...I even managed to get a prime ringside seat for the Kate and Gin performance – boy, that dog can dance!!!! I was still a little hot under the collar from Strike's show the week before, and I'm not sure how I'm going to be able to contain myself when Nemesis appear on stage this week.... so many dancing boys, so very little time....!!!

It's not all sand at Xscape at the moment though...I'm dripping with excitement about the imminent re-opening of the city's number one night spot, Oceana!!

Their first preview night is A-Level Thursday tomorrow, followed by the GRAND VIP opening on 22nd August. NEEDLESS to say, yours truly will be at the front of the queue with her VIP pass... let's just hope they know who I am...I don't want another embarrassing situation...

Finally this week, I'd like to thank all of my devoted readers (I love you...each and every one...) who have e-mailed me... I do reply to all of your lovely messages. I'm a very good agony aunt you know... if you'd like to air your dirty laundry in public and have Auntie Bella fix your problems, just e-mail me on miltonkeynes@xscape.co.uk.

Oooh, and thanks to all who have clicked on my cyber-form online... I'm on Facebook doncha know... Why not google me sometime boys? You know you want to...

B xx

PARKLIFE

WHY spend any time travelling in a hot car when you can be at a park within minutes?

No one in Milton Keynes is ever more than half a mile from a park – which makes taking advantage of the weather and the fantastic backdrop of lakes, woodlands and river valleys easier than ever.

Many people move to Milton Keynes and have no idea how many parks there are that are free for all to use.

While the beautiful trees along the grid roads provide the city with a countryside feel they can also disguise where the hidden green gems of the city lie just waiting to be discovered.

The Parks Trust has over 25 parks all within Milton Keynes, offering great green space that allows your kids and you space to run around, play games, watch wildlife, feed the ducks or join one of many exciting and fun events this summer.

Whether your kids want to make rockets and learn more about the moon, discover which animals would go for gold at an animal Olympics, try fishing or join in the swashbuckling fun at an open air performance of Treasure Island there's plenty of fun and fresh air to go round.

All events are organised by Parks Trust rangers and take place at a variety of parks throughout Milton Keynes. For the rangers summer is their busiest time of year with thousands of people flocking to the parks. As well as school holiday events they arrange talks, guided walks and school visits all year round ensuring that the opportunities to discover more about parks, enjoy the great outdoors and learn about wildlife are endless.

Alternatively, you can simply meet up with the family and friends and create your own entertainment. There's enough space and parks to ensure that you can organise your own family walk, cricket tournament, frisbee throwing, model boat racing or kite flying. The Parks Trust even provides self-guided walks and areas of special interest to get you started on its website. For details of your local parks and events visit www.theparkstrust.com

INDIA 2 GO is a new takeaway and delivery service in Peartree Bridge that offers free delivery on orders over £10.

Our order was delivered to the MK NEWS offices in Fox Milne on time and, crucially, still hot.

The menu has an impressive range of appetisers, 18 in total, from kebabs to samosas.

There is also a broad choice of main dishes including tandoori specials, massala, balti specialities, traditional and contemporary dishes, biriani, Persian and fish specialities.

We chose to sample a range of starters and sides including vegetable samosas (£1.95), onion bahjis (two for £1.95), aloo gobi (£2.50) and bombay potato (£2.50).

The potato was cooked to the perfect consistency and the crunchy bahjis also pleased, but the samosas were a bit of a mystery.

For our first main dish we opted for the chicken tikka massala (£6.50), with generous chunks of chicken prepared in a mild sauce with fresh spices and cream blended in flavoured almond and coconut.

The massala sauce was a hit in the office, with a deliciously creamy texture that was not overly tangy.

Those who prefer a little more kick to their sauce particularly enjoyed the lamb bhuna (£4.60).

The sauce again scored highly and the overall rating was high.

Each dish worked well with a variety of rices, pilau (£1.95), mushroom fried (£2.25) and special fried (£2.25).

Other dishes that caught the eye were the delightfully named gost-e-nawabi (£7.25), a medium spice marinated lamb cooked with herbs and exotic highly flavoured spices, and the most expensive dish, the duck mazadar (£9.95), another medium dish with diced duck cooked in a thick ginger, garlic and green pepper sauce.

This takeaway also offers three set meal options for one or two people which cost up to £22.95.

■ At the moment there is a 10 per cent discount offer on orders over £10.

MK BUSINESS

Chamber is 'Center stage' for Chinese shippers' city visit

THE World Trade Center Milton Keynes, through the Chamber of Commerce, recently welcomed representatives from Ningbo Marine Shipping to the city.

The meeting on July 21, was arranged by UK Chinese Business Consulting, part of the Omega Group, which is based in Oldbrook.

The aim of the visit was to provide useful business connections between two countries and to explore potential trading opportunities.

Ningbo Marine's principal activities are coastal and inland river freight transportation and international ocean shipping transportation. Other activities include investment, development and operation of transportation infrastructure and related service facilities and steel materials processing, transiting, through transporting and warehousing of freight and import and export business.

The company is considering expanding its market into Europe and was keen to make links with the Milton Keynes business community.

Discussions were held on business environment, accessibility to relevant organisations for assistance and possible future developments.

Rita Spada, CEO at the Chamber of Commerce commented after the visit: "Ningbo Marine welcomed the opportunity to explore new opportunities and potentially expand its operation in this region.

"This visit demonstrates how the increased visibility of the Milton Keynes business community on the international stage through the World Trade Center membership opens up new business opportunities to increase trade through new contacts, exploring new services and markets, and building connections with new partners."

In a reciprocal move, the general manager of Ningbo Marine, Mr Guan Xiongwen said he would be happy to invite the Milton Keynes Chamber of Commerce to attend a trade fair in China in the future as they organise quite a few annual events themselves.

Teddy the boy for Inside Ex MK

FORMER England striker Teddy Sheringham MBE, left, is among a list of accomplished speakers attending the Inside Ex Milton Keynes business conference and exhibition later this year.

Now in its fifth year, the event is being held at stadiummk on November 7 and offers local enterprises opportunities to network and make valuable contacts across a wide range of businesses.

Also speaking will be Michael O'Sullivan, head of UK research and Global Asset Allocation at Credit Suisse's Private Bank, which is sponsoring the event.

Inside Ex Milton Keynes, organised by Inside Business, will start with The Big Breakfast networking event. Sheringham, 42, who won 51 caps for England, will speak at a Charity Lunch while the afternoon will include a free marketing seminar with Tony Anderson, one of the UK's top marketing experts, who has worked with Thomas Cook, British Airways, easyJet and EGG.

Coleen Kelly, of Milton Keynes Women's Aid, the charity being supported by the event, said: "We are very grateful to Inside Business for organising this event and supporting Milton Keynes Women's Aid, which provides such an important service to the local community."

Champion jump jockey Tony McCoy is carbon fibre using 'irons' from Prodrive

Motorsport specialist on a winner

ROOKSLEY-BASED motorsport specialist, Prodrive, has designed lightweight horse racing stirrups made from carbon fibre to help make the world's lightest jump racing saddle.

The stirrups weigh just 40 grams, less than the weight of a packet of crisps, and are half the weight of standard aluminium racing stirrups, helping the whole racing saddle to weigh in at just 600 grams.

Developed for Alan Webb Racing saddles, they are currently being use by top jump jockeys including Tony McCoy, Richard Johnson, Ruby Walsh and Mick Fitzgerald, helping them to shave off the fractions of a second needed to win.

As well as being lighter, the carbon fibre stirrups are also stronger.

They have a safe working load of 600 kg,– nearly 10 times the weight of an average jockey – and in tests have withstood a load of 1.8 tonnes before complete failure.

Prodrive senior composites engineer, Roger Walker said: "Today's horse racing is like motor racing weight is critical.

"Every ounce the jockeys can save represents thousandths of a second off the finishing time, which can be the difference between winning and losing by a nose.

"Jockeys even wear lightweight tights to save weight."

At its Rooksley facility, Prodrive manufactures the stirrups alongside the carbon composite components it makes for its own Aston Martin racing cars and Subaru rally cars.

It also manufactures components for the aerospace and marine industries.

All knowledge of all fonts

UNINSPIRED workers could be costing their employers valuable business according to a new survey.

The research reveals that the font type we use in daily communications can put off potential new clients even before they get past the first line of correspondence.

The survey of UK companies, which was carried out by design and print specialist, Kall Kwik, revealed that as the race to secure new business becomes increasingly competitive, decision makers are rating font selection alongside spelling, grammar and layout as one of the most important factors in the 'in or bin' process when it comes to initial impressions of a supplier.

Despite the fact that UK businesses spend in excess of £19 billion a year on marketing, advertising and branding to differentiate themselves from the competition, companies are failing to stand out from the crowd when it comes to day-to-day correspondance with clients by using the same tired default font settings on e-mails and documents.

The results revealed that on average only 10 fonts are regularly used by British office workers even though the standard e-mail and word processing applications offer up to 130 choices.

Stand out from the crowd: The font type we use in daily communications, like e-mails, can put off potential new clients even before they get past the first line

Ninety two per cent of those surveyed claimed to regularly use the standard Arial and Times New Roman default settings for business use with 65 per cent claiming never to have tried anything else – or even considered it! The survey also suggested that outlandish fonts are equally likely to deter clients with 69 per cent of respondents claiming that handwritten-styled fonts such as Script, Bradley Hand and Gigi, projected an unprofessional image of a company.

Laurence Knott, Kall Kwik's head of marketing, said: "It is important for employees to realise that even introductory correspondence is enough to create a bad impression with a potential client.

Whereas we used to be judged on our handwriting style, these days the font we choose can have as much of an impact as what we write.

"Many businesses spend thousands of pounds on designing and creating a trusted brand identity with strict guidelines to follow, however, when it comes to day-to-day correspondence employees often revert to standard-fonts and formats, portraying the wrong impression and running the risk of putting off potential clients.

"On the back of the survey we are recommending that businesses persuade their workforce to move away from the tired old fonts to try and inject some personality into their correspondence with clients.

"We are increasingly losing the personal touch in day-to-day working life and font choice is a simple but effective way to make yourself stand out from the crowd."

BECOME A MULTI-SKILLED ENERGY ASSESSOR

By law trained Energy Assessors will need to carry out an estimated 3 million Energy Assessments in the year from this October - 200,000 commercial buildings, 1.8 million homes being rented and 1.1 million being sold (2.1m in normal house sale years).

Applicants are therefore required to train now - no previous surveying experience is required - at our London, Bristol, Birmingham and Manchester training centres which are approved by the Government-appointed Awarding Body for the Built Environment. The subsidised training is taken in separately bookable 1-week modules usually around current commitments and you qualify as a multi-skilled Domestic and Commercial Energy Assessor, Flood Risk Assessor and Home Inspector.

Homes now being sold already require Assessments with average fees of £70 being paid to our Assessors – fees for the 1.8m rented homes from October are expected to be similar. Fees for currently optional Home Inspections average £250 - commercial Assessments are expected to be higher. Up to 15 domestic Assessments or 6 commercial Assessments or Home Inspections are estimated to be carried out in a week, subject to size of properties and supply. As well as thousands of Assessors carrying out Energy Assessments, 7500 Home Inspectors will be needed upon Government making Home Inspections compulsory - less than a thousand are currently certified.

Regardless of the 'credit crunch' these new 'green' laws and 3 million Assessments are creating a rapidly expanding new industry which you could join, subject to interview and Aptitude test. So apply now for subsidised training and to start a new career carrying out this environmentally important work with potential multiple income stream opportunities.

BECOME A MULTI-SKILLED ENERGY ASSESSOR

By law trained Energy Assessors will need to carry out an estimated 3 million Energy Assessments in the year from this October - 200,000 commercial buildings, 1.8 million homes being rented and 1.1 million being sold (2.1m in normal house sale years).

Applicants are therefore required to train now - no previous surveying experience is required - at our London, Bristol, Birmingham and Manchester training centres which are approved by the Government-appointed Awarding Body for the Built Environment. The subsidised training is taken in separately bookable 1-week modules usually around current commitments and you qualify as a multi-skilled Domestic and Commercial Energy Assessor, Flood Risk Assessor and Home Inspector.

Homes now being sold already require Assessments with average fees of £70 being paid to our Assessors – fees for the 1.8m rented homes from October are expected to be similar. Fees for currently optional Home Inspections average £250 - commercial Assessments are expected to be higher. Up to 15 domestic Assessments or 6 commercial Assessments or Home Inspections are estimated to be carried out in a week, subject to size of properties and supply. As well as thousands of Assessors carrying out Energy Assessments, 7500 Home Inspectors will be needed upon Government making Home Inspections compulsory - less than a thousand are currently certified.

Regardless of the 'credit crunch' these new 'green' laws and 3 million Assessments are creating a rapidly expanding new industry which you could join, subject to interview and Aptitude test. So apply now for subsidised training and to start a new career carrying out this environmentally important work with potential multiple income stream opportunities.

Get your brand closer to people's lives

No other medium is as close to people's hearts as Regional Press. Consumers consider it an integral part of their community. The effectiveness of regional press advertising in driving sales comes down to the simple fact that people prefer to do most of their spending close to where they live.
Consumers' Choice V, a national consumer survey by TNS Media, found that regional press advertising is the most frequently acted upon, with 61% of people responding to it†.
No wonder brands enjoy a closer relationship with consumers when advertised in this, the most trusted and effective medium of all.

MKMOTORSPOTS

Save money servicing your car

VW, AUDI, SEAT, SKODA

Our customers come from all over the country because of our good name and personal service where they can speak to the engineer working on their car. Our work is second to none and they still save up to 50% on main dealer prices

Our workshop is not housed behind a flashy reception area where you hand your keys over and your car disappears not to be seen again until you pay your bill.

We run an open workshop where the customer is shown what's wrong with their car and you can discuss the solutions with the engineer.

Our workshop carry's the latest VAG approved equipment including

- VAG approved computer diagnostics
- VAG approved four wheel alignment
- Tyre fitting and computerised balancing
- Air conditioning services
- VAG trained technicians
- Reception with broadband access

We offer a full range of tuning services including engine tuning and track day preparation.

Current Offers
FREE Diagnostic check
FREE Safety Check
50% OFF Air con service

Having your car serviced with us does not affect your main dealer warranty

Mistakes costly as Dons show too much respect

THE christening into League One did not go the way Roberto Di Matteo had wanted.

It was more a baptism of fire as his side lost 2-0 to Leicester City.

The Walkers Stadium was a far cry from Gigg Lane, Griffin Park and the other grounds where the Dons ran riot in League Two last year.

Of the 23,351 supporters in the crowd most would have been baying for blood if the Foxes failed to deliver signs of a promotion-pushing performance, although a thousand Dons fans would have happily watched Leicester sinking in the depth of League One.

But Nigel Pearson's Foxes have dusted themselves down from their Championship relegation and are prepared to fight their way back.

On this display they look a good bet for promotion, let alone play-offs, while the Dons showed at times they have the potential to upset the best in the league.

Only on this occasion they were unable to convert that potential, yet Di Matteo was pleased with aspects of the Dons' play.

Little could be done about Leicester's opener which came in the 23rd minute via the penalty spot. Matty Fryatt, who had been lively from the beginning, broke free down the left flank then made his way into the box, as Sean O'Hanlon tried to recover for the Dons all he could do was slice down the striker and gift the home side a chance to take the lead.

Fryatt confidently stepped up to dispatch his spot-kick beyond Willy Gueret, who had been a penalty-saving hero on numerous occasions last season. At times the Dons appeared in awe of their opponents, and it wasn't until six minutes before the break when they registered their first effort on goal.

Unfortunately Mark Wright came in at a difficult angle and failed to convert a decent pass from Florian Sturm as he shot well over the bar.

Former Don Lloyd Dyer was a handful at the start but drifted out of the game.

The half-time speech had some impact on Milton Keynes as they re-entered the field a more confident looking side.

Then chances were there for the taking. Sturm's drive went wide of the post, Sam Baldock's cross-cum-shot dragged wide with no-one arriving to follow it up, but the best chance ultimately fell to Aaron Wilbraham.

Keith Andrews, on a low-key showing by his standards, dinked in a decent free-kick at the far post for the target man to latch on to, yet Wilbraham lacked the fire power to take the ball beyond keeper Paul Henderson.

An embarrassing clash between Jude Stirling and Peter Leven gifted the Foxes their second when the impressive Max Gradel stole possession, layed the ball on for Fryatt to slot home.

Di Matteo admitted the mistakes cost his team on the day but remained positive.

He said: "First game away at Leicester it's tough on my players but I'm pleased with the overall performance of the team.

"I truly believe that we had a good chance to draw the game but unfortunately another small mistake cost us.

"I wouldn't say we showed fear, maybe a bit of respect to Leicester which wasn't necessary."

It would be ridiculous to judge this performance and result as a marker for the rest of the year, after all Leicester are not your average League One football team.

The 2008/09 season is their first outside the top tiers, while in comparison the Dons have spent two years in the murky underworld of football - the basement division.

TEAMS

LEICESTER CITY: Henderson, Gilbert, Tunchev (Hobbs 88), Morrision, Mattock, Gradel, Oakley (c), King, Dyer, Fryatt, Howard (Dickov 62).

NORTHAMPTON

LEAGUE ONE

Saturday, August 16

stadiummk KO 3pm

THERE is nothing better than a local derby to pull the crowds in, especially when it's the first home game of a new season.

This Saturday MK Dons play host to Northampton Town for the first time.

The Cobblers come to stadiummk on the back of a fine victory over Cheltenham on the opening day.

Adebayo Akinfenwa's two penalties helped Northampton come from behind to win 4-2.

Not only will the Dons have to keep Akinfenwa quiet on the day, they will also have to shut out his team-mate and former Leeds striker Leon Constantine.

Giles Coke left Sixfields at the weekend nursing a twisted ankle while two-goal hero Akinfenwa had five stitches in a head wound, both are expected to be fit for the match.

Dons' newest signing Ali Gerba missed the trip to Leicester to return to Canada for a work permit and Roberto Di Matteo will be hoping that is sorted to strengthen his strike force.

But the home supporters will want to see goals and the Sam Baldock-Aaron Wilbraham partnership are more than capable of fulfilling their needs.

MK Dons are one step closer to retaining their Johnstone's Paint Trophy.

The Dons have been awarded a bye in the first round and go straight in the hat for the second.

Roberto Di Matteo's men start the defence of their title just as they did last season.

They are one of eight teams from the southern counties section to be given a bye to the second round.

The following clubs have received byes to the second round:

Northern Section: Bury, Carlisle United, Chester City, Darlington, Huddersfield Town, Lincoln City, Rochdale and Rotherham United

Southern Section: Cheltenham Town, Gillingham, Hereford United, Luton Town, Milton Keynes Dons, Peterborough United, Walsall and Wycombe Wanderers

The draw for round one takes place on Sky Sports' Soccer AM show this Saturday.

The Dons will enter the competition on Tuesday, October 7.

KEITH Andrews has been removed from the transfer list.

But speculation remains as to whether the skipper will still be wearing Dons colours come midnight on August, 31 - the final day of the transfer window.

MK Dons made the midfielder available for offers last month as rumours linking him to a move refused to go away.

The Dons released a statement last Thursday saying Andrews' name is no longer on the list, allowing him to concentrate on the new season.

However, reports are continuing to see his name attached to a move to Ewood Park to join former boss Paul Ince in a £2millon move.

MK Dons Supporters Association have organised a treasure hunt.

Teams will meet at the Beacon pub on Sunday, August 24 at 12pm and they will then go around MK in search of the answers to clues.

Prizes are up for grabs and bonus points are available to teams with Dons tops and cars decorated with Dons memorabilia.

OLYMPIC GAMES

Pickering ready to ring changes

IN two days time Craig Pickering's Olympic dream will begin.

But the runner is realistic about his medal hopes in Beijing.

The 100m competitions commences on Friday yet with the likes of Tyson Gay, Asafra Powell and Usain Bolt set to dominate the event Pickering has turned his attentions to the relay.

Four years ago in Athens Great Britain's 4x100m squad shocked the world by winning gold.

Now Pickering is out to repeat the success.

The 21-year-old said: "I remember watching the relay final last time - I couldn't believe they were winning. It was a great achievement. There's a medal there for us if everything goes well we'll definitely be in the mix.

"We know we need to get the change right. It's a case of putting pressure on the other teams at the change and hoping they make a mistake."

But before Pickering can make an impact in the relay, which takes place next week, he has to focus on his own 100m fate.

Despite coming into the Games on the back of a hamstring injury the Milton Keynes sprinter feels fit and ready to run but knows he is up against tough opposition.

Baton charge: Craig Pickering reckons the GB 4x100m realy squad are in with the chance of a medal

"I try to be realistic. There are a lot of people running faster than me at the moment. If I can make the semi-finals that will put me in the top-16 in the world and that will be a good step forward for me.

"If I can get to the final, that would be brilliant, if not, at least I will have given it my best shot. I'll go out there and run the best I can.

"I'm in pretty good shape and training is going well.

■ THERE are great expectations resting on Greg Rutherford's shoulders.

The MK long jumper has been targeted as one of the lucky athletes with the potential to win a medal in the Olympics.

Rutherford, who takes part in the qualifying round on Saturday, booked his place in Beijing with a season best jump of 8.20meters, and his personal best is 8.26m, a distance he will need to improve on if he is to challenge for a place on the podium.

Twenty-one-year-old Rutherford said: "There is a lot to come from me and much bigger distances. When I hit that 8.16 (at Crystal Palace) it felt like the easiest jump I've ever done so there's definitely a lot more. If I can hit one properly I know I'll go far.

"If I can win a medal it would be the icing on the cake to my career to date. And the way I see it that can happen.

"I am looking forward to being one of the few people in the world who can say they are an Olympian and that will be an amazing thing."

But like Pickering, his Marshall Milton Keynes Athletic Club team mate, he is not putting too much pressure on himself.

Rutherford, a European silver medallist, knows that London 2012 will be the Olympics where he can make a real impact.

"By then I should be in my prime at 25 and I should be a veteran in terms of having competed in Olympics, World Championships and everything else. I will be looking to jump very, very far and winning that."

Chinese bow to great badminton comeback

BY SIMONE CORGAN

simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

AN incredible comeback by Gail Emms and Nathan Robertson ensured the mixed doubles partners progressed through to the last eight at the Beijing Olympics.

The MK-based duo fought back in the final set to record a 21-16, 16-21, 21-19 victory over Chinese second seeds Ling Gao and Bo Zheng.

It was the perfect revenge for Emms and Robertson who lost in the final four years ago in Athens to Gao and her then-partner Zhang Jun.

Gao, a gold medallist in the mixed doubles and silver medallist in the women's doubles, was competing in her last competition.

There was a great atmosphere in the Beijing University of Technology Gymnasium where two other games were also taking place, although most eyes were on the Great Britain-China contest.

Emms, who was knocked out of the women's doubles on Sunday, and Robertson had a brilliant start first leading by 10-7 before stretching the lead to 17-12 at one stage.

The pair piled on the pressure to the number two seeds as they claimed the first set in a 21-16.

They were playing smartly by restricting Gao to the back end of the court.

Robertson, at 6ft 2ins, towered behind Emms on the court giving her the support needed to return play at the net.

The second set proved a little more difficult but still Robertson was able to smash the shuttle-cock right down the centre to lead 11-7 at the mid-game stage.

But the Chinese lifted their performance after falling 12-8 behind they overturned the four point deficit to take the initiative at 13-15 as Gao controlled at the net.

They took the momentum by pulling back 14 points after the mid-game interval to win the second set 16-21.

The dramatic turn-around ensured the duo to go through to the quarter-finals would be decided in the final game.

Robertson, who had surgery on his right ankle in the summer, was playing in his first competitive match since the European Championships in the spring and after a demanding second game he began to look a little tired.

Emms was fired up for the final set, but it counted for little as the Chinese pair had the advantage at 11-6 when the mid-game interval was called.

It was at that point that Emms and Robertson came to life and sparked an amazing fight back.

They went from 10-16 behind to record seven straight points clawing the score back and taking a 18-17 lead.

However, the twist was not over there. The score switched from 18-17 to 19-17 to 19-18 when Emms made a defensive error leaving it all to play for at 19-19.

Emms and Robertson held their nerve to win the final two points to end the thrilling encounter

They meet South Korea's Lee Hyo Jung and Lee Yong Dae in the quarter-finals on Thursday.

Cricket wash-out

RAIN stopped play in the local cricket leagues at the weekend.

The Morrants Four Counties, Cherwell League and Northants Premier League matches were abandoned.

Heat's on for Lions

MK Lions are to play Guildford Heat over two legs in the Cup Winners' Cup.

The Heat are the current holders of the title - which was introduced in 2007 and which pitches the winners of the BBL Trophy against the BBL Cup winners - having beaten Plymouth Raiders home and away last September.

The teams went head-to-head at the culmination of last season as the Heat overcame the Lions 100-88 in the BBL Championship Playoff final at the National Indoor Arena.

Both clubs were highly successful on the domestic front last year with Guildford winning the BBL Trophy and the BBL Playoffs, while finishing second in the league, and Milton Keynes capturing the BBL Cup, the first piece of major silverware in the club's history, and also finishing in the top four in the BBL Championship for the first time.

The first leg is to be held at the Guildford Spectrum on Sunday, September 14, tip-off 3pm, and the second will take place at Bletchley Leisure Centre on Friday, September 19 at 7.30pm.

Tickets are available via the Spectrum Box Office on 01483-44-33-22 or via the website, www.guildford-heat.com, and for the Lions at www.mklions.com.

Rowing invitation

MILTON Keynes Rowing Club (MKRC) is holding two open days.

The club, which is based at the Water Sports Centre on the South Lake at Caldecotte lake, will open its doors on Saturday, August 16 from 11am-5pm and Monday, August 18 from 6.30-8.30pm to anyone who wants try rowing.

It is open to young or old, male or female, experienced rowers or complete beginners.

Sam the man

Acrobatic Aaron: Dons striker Wilbraham gets among the Norwich defenders as 'Super Sam' Baldock follows up

Carling Cup 1st Round
MK Dons 1
Norwich City 0

BY SIMONE CORGAN
simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

SUPER Sam's solo strike sent MK Dons sailing into the second round of the Carling Cup last night.

Sam Baldock struck his first competitive goal for the senior side to dump Championship side Norwich City out of the competition at the first stage.

The 19-year-old academy product, dubbed 'Super Sam' by the Cowshed faithful, found the back of the net on the 34th minute of the Dons' impressive display.

They didn't have it all their own way as Glenn Roeder's team camped in the Dons' half at times, but they were made to pay for their lack of cutting edge.

The Canaries provided an early scare to the Dons when Mark Fotheringham picked out Omar Koroma with an inswinger from the right corner.

Suspect marking from the Dons allowed Komora to send a thumping header from eight yards out just inches off target.

Finding themselves under the cosh in spells, the Dons had to resort to fast counter-attacking.

It almost worked when Aaron Wilbraham timed his run brilliantly to beat the offside trap. He collected on the edge of the box, took a touch but could not prevent his strike from rising over.

Norwich were enjoying plenty of possession yet failed to do much with the ball, mainly due to the Dons team defending - one phase of attack saw ten men in white shirts camping behind the ball.

Dons were made to work hard for their opportunities, but they did come.

A throw in made it's way through to Wilbraham who teed-up Jemal Johnson, only for Jon Otesemobor to dash across to clear the ex-Wolves man's shot.

On the 32nd minute Willy Gueret was to thank for keeping the scores level when he came off his line to make a great save from Koroma.

To return the favour the Dons went up the other end and found the back of the net.

Seconds after dragging an effort wide Baldock collected a smart ball from Andrews then he expertly beat the keeper and recovering defender Elliott Omusuzi at the near post to fire the Dons ahead.

Baldock could have added to his goal tally after the break but the youngster clipped over the bar.

Former Arsenal striker Arturo Lupoli failed to make any impact on the game.

A double substitution by Roeder injected life into Norwich as Lee Croft's first touch gave Russell plenty of space in midfield and he hit a stunning shot which smashed the upright.

The Dons went for a second and almost reaped the rewards on the 78th minute when Danny Swailes headed agonisingly wide following an Andrews free-kick.

Croft was left with his head in his hands five minutes from time when his tame toe-poke at the far post fell straight into the hand of a grateful Gueret, the skipper Forthering also blasted miles wide.

The Dons survived four minutes of added time, and will head into the second round with plenty of confidence.
